"Engage in Equity – A Conversation about Microaggressions"

Monday, June 4, 2018

7:00 PM - 8:30 PM

Okemos High School Auditorium

This event will help us as a community, school district, and as individuals to:

- Learn more about microaggressions
- Better understand what microaggressions are and how to define them
- Listen to examples of microaggressions and personal stories
- Discover why/how people respond to them

Facilitated by Dorinda Carter Andrews, Ph.D., assistant dean of Equity Outreach Initiatives for the Michigan State University College of Education & associate professor of race, culture and equity in the Department of Teacher Education.
